Journal Entry Lab CSS3
Robert Boyd CSCI N343

What I learned

- I learned capabilities of CSS3 that I didn't know existed. It's a similar situation in other types of programming you may have used Java for a long time but unless you have a reason to use a specific function you may never use it. You could go through a career not knowing about a functionality just because you were never forced to use it. I am glad we were instructed to use these tags in this way.

- The flexibility of CSS was reinforced to me, I was able to update my existing style sheet and just append or slightly modify existing tags

- Overall I learned new and interesting ways to display information with CSS, I especially liked the columns. In the past I might have used separate containers of overflow to get columns but now I will simply use that tag